JUVENILE FAIR A SUCCESS

The Following List Shows How Our Youngsters Came Up to the Scratch on Fair Day.

The Juvenile Fair was held at the Fair grounds on Saturday last and it was the greatest ever. Not only were the displays in floral hall better and the exhibits in the ring, but there was also the largest crowd that ever attended a Children's Fair here. The grand stand was well filled and everyone there seemed to be thoroughly enjoying the day. Aside from the excellence of the exhibits and the splendid order maintained, the day was ideal for a Fair and will long be remembered, not only by the little ones, but by all who attended the Fair, as a day of unalloyed pleasure:

WHAT CONSTITUTES A NEGRO?

The Supreme Court of the United States Will Have to Decide the Knotty Problem

Just what constitutes a negro in the United States may be a question which the Supreme Court will be asked to settle in the near future. One sixteenth negro blood in an individual classifies him as a negro in the District of Columbia, according to a decision by Justice Wright, of the District Supreme Court, in the case of Isabel I. Wall, an eight-year-old child, who was recently barred from a white public school because the principal had information that she was of negro parentage. The father of the girl attempted to force the Board of Education to reinstate the child, but failed, Justice Wright deciding that she was a negro. The case was appealed.

BEST OFFER EVER MADE

The "Big 5" Clubbing Offer the Sun Made Last Week Has Proven a Big Hit.

Last week the Sun made a Clubbing offer composed of five papers and magazines, which went like wildfire. Those who know the magazines and papers say that it is the greatest offer they ever saw, and no sooner did the Sun reach the public than we began to hear from it. During the week so many took a vantage of the offer that we were surprised. This offer comprises the following magazines and periodicals: Uncle Remus' Home Magazine, a magazine devoted to the South and Southern people, 1 year; Good Housekeeping, a magazine published for the home and housewife, 1 year; Home and Farm, the South's greatest Agricultural journal, 1 year; The Evening Post, 3 mos.; and the Springfield Sun, 1 year. The regular subscription price of these standard works would total $5 25.

For a SHORT TIME the Sun is offering all Five for $2.00.

Does this sound unreasonable?

We are offering them and those who know are taking advantage of this liberal offer.

If you have never seen a copy of these Magazines and Periodicals call at this office and we will be glad to show them to your You will readily agree with us that any one of them is worth the price asked by us for all FIVE: $2.00.

THE RECORD FOR PROPOSALS

Merry Seattle Widow, Possessed of Remarkable Beauty, Has 1,001 Proposals to Wed

New York may have its herd of 185 loves in the person of one Roscoe H. Sanborn, says an exchange, but Seattle has a real merry widow with 1,001 proposals to her credit. The 1,001st man is the lucky one and the wedding will occur shortly.

The merry widow is Mrs. Rila May Dike, a 'phone operator. It is a question if Mrs. Dike ever saw more than a scant half dozen of the 1,001 suitors. But that did not detract from the ardor of their love epistles. They wrote from the north, the south, the east and the west.

Mrs. Dike was formerly an Iowa girl —Ottumwa being her home. Three years ago she married and with her husband went to South Dakota. He was killed in a wreck and Mrs. Dike bravely faced the world and took up a claim.

She called her place Ottumwa and it is still known by that name in S. Dakota. Mrs. Dike was awarded the prize for being the prettiest young woman in the State. Newspapers devoted columns to her photo and beauty.

At first letters came by two and three, but finally the rural delivery man had to put on an extra mule to aid in hauling the mail out to Ottumwa

Mrs. Dike has a bungalow out on her 160 acres. There she opened and read every one of the proposals.

Her house needed papering. Nothing would suit the purpose better than the ton or two of love letters. Mrs. Dike plastered the walls and the ceilings and used photos for the roofing, and with the surplus built a chicken corral. Over all she pasted this large sign: "Love letter shack. Tack new proposals on vacant space."

Death of a Child.

Ray, the 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ewing, who reside on the Short Line turnpike, died Tuesday of enlargement of the throat. The little fellow had been ill but a short while. The interment took place Wednesday afternoon at Pleasant Run.

Your complexion as well as your temper is rendered miserable by a disordered liver. By taking Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets you can improve both. Sold by all druggists.

STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING

Election of a Board of Directors For the New Bank — Other Business Transacted.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the new bank, held at the Court house Saturday, T. Scott Mayes was elected chairman of the meeting and Theo. Campbell secretary. After the organization had been effected the gathering proceeded to the election of a board of directors, the following persons being chosen: J. H. McClure, J. S. Yankey, W. A. Clements, T. E. Ballard, J. W. Tucker, C. D Robertson, L. A. Burns, Byron Croake, and S. P. Thompson. J. H. McClure was chosen president and J. S. Yankey vice-president, while R. E Foster will be cashier and J. M. Smith assistant cashier.

The new bank will be known as the Springfield State bank and will be opened as soon as suitable quarters can be secured.

Saved A Soldier's Life.

Facing death from shot and shell in the civil war was more agreeable to J. A. Stone, of Kemp, Tex., than facing it from what doctors said was consumption. "I contracted a stubborn cold" he writes, "that developed a cough, that stuck to me in spite of all remedies for years. My weight ran dawn to 130 pounds. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me. I now weigh 178 pounds." For Coughs, Colds, LaGrip, Asthma, Hemorrhage, Hoarseness, Croup, Whooping Cough and lung trouble, its supreme. 50c. 1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Haydod and Robertson.

SUBSCRIBERS MUST PAY UP

Newspapers Must Send Postal Officials Sworn List of Their Subscribers.

A dispatch from Washington says: "Newspapers over the entire country have been given to understand that Uncle Sam's postoffice department meant business about two years ago when it said that all mail subscriptions in the future must not be allowed to be in arrears over three months. Newspapers in Illinois are now being called on by the postal officials to send them a sworn list of their subscribers, indicating how many mail subscribers are in arrears over three months. The department is headed south and as rapidly as possible covering the whole nation.

The enforcement of this means a revolution in the conducting of a country newspaper, where credit was generously extended by the publishers to their subscribers because they knew the subscribers would pay."

The above being true, we must ask that our subscribers, who are in arrears pay up at once, as we do not want to lose any of our good subscribers—and that includes our entire list, says The Pioneer, and this lucidly emphasises the position of the Sun and every other newspaper in the country.

The date to which your subscription is paid is printed on the label of your paper.

OPERATING IN WESTERN KENTUCKY

Wealthy Distiller of Paducah Receives a "Black Hand" Demand for $10,000.

Paducah, Ky., Sept. 9.—The "Black Hand" men have caused a stir here by sending a letter to John W. Keiler, who is probably the wealtiest distiller of Paducah.

The letter demands that Keiler leave $10,000 under a certain board walk and it threatens him with death unless he complies with the request.

Keiler immediately turned the letter over to the authorities. He has no intention of shoving $10,000 under a sidewalk, but he is considerably worked up over the letter and is being guarded day and night by plain clothes men.

Detectives have been placed on the trail, and while there is a possibility that it is a joke, there is still the chance that they are the real "Black Hand" men and that they may throw dynamite into the Keiler home if their demands are not granted.—Ex

ANTIQUATED HEN-FRUIT

Eggs Encased in Clay and When Unpacked Looked Like Pieces of Pumice Stone.

When Li Hung Chang made his tour of the world his commissariat carried with it a supply of Chinese preserved eggs for the venerable ambassador's special use. Some of those eggs were exhibited in New York while he was staying here, says Harper's Weekly, and a few experts had the temerity to sample them. "They are not so bad after all," was the verdict of one American connoisseur, "although by their looks you would think they would come under the ban of the pure food law."

The eggs were encased in clay, and when unpacked looked like pieces of pumice stone. They are preserved in this way by the Chinese for a century or more and Li Hung Chang admitted that the hen which laid the egg for his morning meal might have been decapitated anywhere from a quarter to half a century before he was born.

The process of keeping is very primitive, but as effective as it is simple. The eggs are first boiled hard and then while they are hot they are wrapped in soft clay and packed away. In this condition the Chinese claim they will keep forever and not lose their flavor or wholesomeness. Indeed they consider that age improves the flavor. Li Hung Chang's commissariat brought the eggs for his personal use in bags packed in rice husks, but as the clay was hard there was not much danger of breaking them. When opened the "white" was found to be almost black and the yolks green. The flavor, however, was preserved. The Chinese chop these preserved boiled eggs and decorate most of their viands with them. They also enter largely into all their sausages.

BALLINGER'S OBSEQUIES

The Political Funeral of Richard Achilles Ballinger Took Place at Minneapolis on the 9th of September.

Minneapolis, Sept. 9.—"That Richard A. Ballinger has not been true to the trust reposed in him as Secretary of the Interior, that he is not deserving of public confidence, and that he should be requested by proper authorities to resign his office," sums up the findings of the four Democratic members of the Ballinger Pinchot investigation committee of Congress, made public to-day. The Republican members issued no report.

An independent report was given out by Madison (insurgent) from Kansas, which declares also that Ballinger "should not be retained; that he was an unfaithful trustee of the people's interests, an enemy of conservation," and that the charges of Gifford Pinchot should be sustained.

The decision of the four Democratic members and Madison to make the report public followed an unusual session, three Republican members, Senator Sutherland, of Utah, and Representatives McCall, of Massachusetts, and Denby, of Michigan, refusing to attend the meeting. Finally, the chairman, Senator Nelson, of Minnesota, left the committee room and failed to return. Nelson gave notice that the meeting would be held in Chicago next Tuesday. The Democratic members adjourned to meet in Washington December 3. Representative Ollie M. James, of Kentucky, one of the Democratic members, announced hat all Democrats would refuse to attend the meeting of which Nelson had given notice.

The Democratic findings declare that the evidence shows that there was no conspiracy against Ballinger and that Pinchot and Glavis were faithful trustees of the people's interests.—Kentucky State Journal.

REVOLT OF THE VOTERS

Opportunity for the Democratic Party to Serve the People by Restoring Public Confidence.

The repudiation of the Regular Republicans in the States of the middle west means the same thing exactly as was indicated by the election of Foss in Massachusetts. It means that the voters are seeking instruments who will carry out their will at Washington in those respects in which the Republican organization has allied itself with the classes against the masses. It means that the masters have reached that condition of mind in which if one servant or set of servants will not execute their bidding, they will turn to another. It means that the general public has at last been driven to an understanding of the real purposes of the league so long existing between syndicated greed and political treachery, and that in former Republican strongholds the men who want office must bottom their claims to it upon allegiance to the people rather than on thick and thin loyalty to party shibboleths and emblems. It means that in the next Congress the Democratic representatives, instead of having to contend with a solid Republican phalanx, will find both in the senate and in the house of representatives a strong contingent of able men who have been commissioned by their constituencies to defy ring domination and caucus dictation and to treat as their first duty the effecting of those public policies for which the Democracy has been battling for many years.

The Democratic party will be the beneficiary of the political revolution that a new manifestly in the ascendant. If it can appear in the next congress with a solid column of spokesmen in favor of the one thing on which the public will is now determined, the restoration of a government of, by and for the people and the repeal of all laws which predicate the profits of certain preferred industries on the burdens heaped on that nine-tenths of the country's population who are discriminated against.—Norfolk Virginian Pilot, (Dem.)

ROUND ABOUT THE STATE

MOST IMPORTANT NEWS GATHERED FROM ALL PARTS OF KENTUCKY

WILL MEET AT STATE FAIR.

Different Organizations Booked for Conventions at Louisville.

Louisville.—Several conventions and formal sessions of different organizations have been booked for meetings in this city during State Fair week, and numerous other organizations are now making arrangements for such meetings, with dates yet to be selected. All meetings will be held at the State Fair grounds. The annual meeting of the Kentucky State Agricultural society will be held in convention hall at the fair grounds on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The session will be called to order by President M. F. Johnson, of Fern Creek.

Announcement was made of the program for the good roads convention, to be held on Thursday afternoon under the auspices of the Kentucky Good Roads association. Senator Joe F. Bosworth, of Middlesboro, president of the association, will preside. The purposes of the convention and of the work of the association will be discussed by H. A. Sommers, of Elizabethtown, chairman for good roads day. R. J. McBryde, of the Louisville Times, will speak on "The Press and Good Roads." "Rural Delivery and Good Roads" is the subject of a paper which will be read by a representative of the postoffice department at Washington. A representative of the bureau of good roads, United States department of agriculture, will discuss "What the Federal Government Is Doing to Develop Good Roads Sentiment." Miscellaneous business will be transacted and everything possible done to give impetus to the good roads movement in Kentucky.

Friday will be known as Traveling Men's day at the State Fair, and the knights of the grip will hold a convention during the afternoon. Representatives from all commercial organizations of the state will assemble in convention at the fair grounds on Friday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock. A formal gathering of Confederate veterans will be held in the model school building from 6 to 7:30 o'clock Friday afternoon. Another convention already scheduled is that of the Buff Orpington club, which will meet at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon. This meeting has been called by J. Duncan Bell, of Paris, president of the club.

WILL MEET SEPTEMBER 23.

Estill Springs Postponed Convention Will Now Gather at Lexington.

Lexington.—The Eighth District Newspaper league will meet in Lexington at the Phoenix hotel, September 23, when the first regular program ever carried out by the order will be given. Speeches on various phases of newspaper work will be made and discussions will take place. The program is not yet announced, but a committee is now at work on it. J. B. Stears, of the Jessamine News, is president of the league and will preside over the meeting. The convention was to have been held September 2 at Estill Springs, but was postponed, as many members of the league were not able to be present.

"BOOM" IN FARM LANDS.

Shelbyville.—The "boom" in farm lands along the line of the new Louisville & Eastern still continues. Chester Turner sold 200 acres of his farm for $125 per acre, and almost before the ink on the contract had dried the purchaser was offered a bonus of $1,000. Dr. H. D. Rodman, of Louisville, recently sold one of his farms in the same neighborhood to W. R. Spann for $150 per acre, and the purchaser has since refused $200. Dr. Rodman's other farm, containing the famous "Creekmere" dairy barns, etc., has just been sold to his nephew, John A. Rodman, but the price was not made public.

REPORT OF STATE AUDITOR.

Frankfort.—During the past month the outstanding warrants against the state were increased about $30,000, as shown by the report of Auditor James for the month of August. The outstanding warrants at the close of business August 31 amounted to $1,632,220.43 and at the close of business July 1 they were $1,602,595.76. The balance in the sinking fund is $142,747,44; matter fund, $373,149.43, and the deficit in the general expenditure fund amounts to $114,048.22.

PEACH FAMINE.

Glasgow.—There is a peach famine in Southern Kentucky, but strange to say the matter was not generally known until the past few days. Barren and surrounding counties are noted for their fine peaches, and not only supply the home demand, but ship thousands of bushels to other states. The cause of the peach failure is thought to be on account of the late freezes. Up to this time there has been hardly any of the fruit on the market, and the few bushels sold ght $1.50 per bushel.

PLANS FOR BIG EXHIBITS.

Louisville.—The Louisville Bottlers' association held a meeting to discuss plans for the meeting of the State Bottlers' association to be held at the state fair on September 15. Preparations have been made by the local association to entertain the delegates to the convention of the State Bottlers' association, and while the local association was organized only a few weeks ago, it contains every bottler in the city of Louisville.

Plans for several big exhibits at the state fair have been made by the local association, and in order that all of the latest bottling machinery can be shown to advantage at the convention, the local committee has secured space on the fair grounds for a big tent in which to make the exhibit. Several manufacturers of bottling machinery will have representatives at the fair with samples of their machinery.

The Commonwealth

Russellville.—The Logan County Farmers' institute will be held in this city October 14 and 15.

Winchester.—W. A. Beatty, editor of the Daily News, of this city, was thrown from a buggy by a runaway horse and his left arm was broken in two places. He was taken to a Lexington hospital.

Vacancies at Annapolis Naval Academy to be filled from Kentucky are as follows: By Senators Paynter and Bradley, one each. From the First congressional district, two, and from the Second, Third, Fifth, Sixth and Tenth, one each.

Carrollton.—The death of Mrs. Susan Dean, one of the oldest citizens of Carroll county, occurred after a brief illness at the home of her daughter near this city. She was 97 years of age and had been a resident of Carroll county for 91 years. She was only ill three days.

Glasgow.—While she was in her sick bed the home of Mrs. Charlie Stults, of Green county, caught fire and Mrs. Stults would have perished in the flames had she not been rescued by neighbors. Her husband was away and the building caught from a defective flue in the kitchen.

Glasgow.—J. T. Cheatham, aged 75 years, and Mrs. Virgie Eaton, aged 60, were married here. Mr. Cheatham was formerly county court clerk of Cumberland county, Kentucky, and when married 45 years ago issued his own license. This is the third matrimonial venture for the bride.

Danville.—The reunion of the alumni of the Kentucky School for the Deaf was held at that institution in this city. The reunions, which are important events in the lives of the graduates, are held every three years, and there is usually a large attendance. One of the features of the meeting was the banquet.

Elkton.—John Thomas was probably fatally hurt and his son, Tobe, received injuries from which his death is momentarily expected, when a southbound passenger train struck their buggy at a crossing in the yards at Guthrie. Their horse was instantly killed and their buggy completely demolished.

New Haven.—M. C. Beam & Co., distillers at Gethsemane, sold their plant to Taylor & Williams, of Louisville, who have assumed control of the business. The firm of Beam & Co. was Minor C. Beam and J. Bernard Dant. The latter is president of the Taylor & Williams Co. that already has a plant at that point.

Frankfort.—P. Ramey, bank clerk in the secretary of state's office, has received applications for charters for two new banks. A bank with a capital stock of $15,000 has been organized at Lynn Grove, Calloway county, and the Springfield State bank of Springfield, with a capital stock o $50,000, wants a charter.

Frankfort.—After quarreling with her husband over a trivial matter, at the Capital Fair, Mrs. Neve White, aged 18, who is a bride of two months, jumped into the Kentucky river, above the fair grounds, and committed suicide. Her money was found tied in her handkerchief and put in her shoes on the bank.

Munfordville.—Robert Richardson, of Uno, this county, died from the effects of a knife wound he received in the back, it is alleged, at the hands of Tom Radford, a negro farm hand. They had a difficulty over a settlement of a tobacco crop. Radford is in jail on the charge of murder. Richardson was about 40 years of age and leaves a wife and children.

Stanford.—Nancy Rankin, the 11 year-old daughter of Lee Rankin, a prominent farmer of this county, was assaulted by Shay Spellman, a negro farmhand employed by her father. The crime was committed while the girl was helping Spellman with the milking. When the girl told her story her uncles captured Spellman, who begged so hard for his life that they abandoned their original intention of shooting him and brought him to the Stanford jail.

Louisa.—The jury in the case against Dr. F. D. Marcum for killing John Whittaker brought in a verdict of manslaughter and fixed his punishment at seven years in the penitentiary. The killing took place on a C. & O. train two years ago. Marcum was marshal of Louisa, and was requested by the conductor to arrest Whittaker and three companions for disorderly conduct. They resisted, and in the fight that followed Whittaker was fatally shot. The jury disagreed in the first trial.

Feathers in Style

THERE is a growing sentiment against wearing the plumage of birds, in varieties where cruelty must be practised to secure it. Women are learning to discriminate in this matter and to forego the wearing of plumage that promises to bring about the extinction of a species of beautiful wild birds or to inflict torture. A proud crest of dainty feathers torn from the back of a mother bird and the death of a nest full of fledglings by slow starvation, are not pleasant suggestions to flaunt with the group of sweeping aigrettes upon the head of beauty. For the wearer must be either uninformed, or indifferent, or unmindful of cruelty. None of the excuses will pass muster with intelligent people.

Aside from a very few sorts, the feathers we have worn recently and those we will wear, are made from the plumage of domestic or other edible birds. No cruelty is practised in securing them and thousands of people make a living by manufacturing the millinery trimmings made of them. Feather bands, sewed wings, pompons, breasts and mounted sprays—in fact, a world of airy and attractive decorations—are cleverly fashioned from the feathers of the turkey, chicken, pigeon, peacock and pheasant. These are bleached, dyed, eaten with acids, pieced and pasted until their origin is lost sight of. Other birds of bright plumage, such as the parrot, and birds like the blackbird and sparrow, of which there are myriads, are used, but they are not cruelly treated, unless sudden death is cruel.

The wearing of a bird upon the hat may be in questionable taste and at present one sees almost no birds, but any amount of plumage. Gradually the wearing of feathers may die out, but the signs of the times do not point that way. More plumage is shown now than ever before. Women should learn to discriminate in choosing it, and select those feathers which they may wear with an easy conscience. They are obliged to inform themselves in some states of the Union or run the risk of forfeiting their forbidden property. For laws have been passed and are enforced to protect certain birds, and one may not own their plumage.

MAKES A DAINTY COSTUME

Design That Would Look Well in a Gray Zephyr, Spotted With Blue.

Gray zephyr spotted with blue would look pretty carried out in our design. The skirt has a panel front, which is continued in a deep band at the foot, and has the upper part gathered; it is also gathered at the waist. A panel to match is taken down back and front, the sleeves being cut in with the sides. Lawn claudine cuffs and collar add a dainty finish.

Hat of blue straw, trimmed with gray net and roses.

Material required: Seven and one-half yards zephyr 30 inches wide.

Easy Way to Clean Lace Yokes.

If instead of taking lace yokes and cuffs out of dresses to wash when soiled they are rubbed with dry starch, then brushed thoroughly, the lace will look like new.

PLEA FOR THE GROWING GIRL

Problem of Maternal Management That Is Worth Some Serious Consideration.

So many older women seem to think that because a girl of from fourteen to twenty or so is likely to be callow and sometimes forward and rather ridiculous in her pretentions of age and dignity she must be continually snubbed and "put down." They keep calling her "child" and laughing at her opinions and criticisms, and leaving her out of discussion and conversation, until some day they awake with a start to realize that the child is a woman, and a pert and embittered woman at that.

Of course, American girls are notorious for their unpleasant presumption, and there are many, many things which a girl in her teens is not competent to decide for herself, let alone for others; but there is no reason why a girl who really is growing up should be made to feel that she is always in the way and must be patronized when she is noticed at all. Give her at least a chance to feel that she is one of the family and that she is a step above the children in the nursery, whom she is likely so to despise.

Here, as elsewhere, "you will go most safely in the middle," and this rather delicate problem of maternal management will settle itself if consideration and common sense are learned on one side and taught on the other.—Exchange.

Short Skirts or Long?

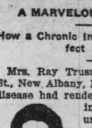

There can be no doubt that the really short skirt has thoroughly established itself this spring. Of course, for walking and all outdoor games it is a delightful and most sensible fashion, but there is some question as to its beauty and suitability where the dressy afternoon frock or evening toilet is concerned. For the quite young woman who is still in her teens, or has recently quitted them, the short frock looks girlish and pretty, and is, moreover, very practical and comfortable. But with the older woman it is quite a different matter. She looks simply ridiculous in these fashionable curtailed skirts, and, far from giving her a girlish appearance, they add years to her apparent age.

Garters for Short Socks.

Garters for short socks for the kiddies are being made of hat rubber instead of the wider and more conspicuous garter rubber or the untidy nothing at all. Usually it is white, though for pink or blue socks it can easily be painted the color desired.

A MARVELOUS RECOVERY.

How a Chronic Invalid Regained Perfect Health.

Mrs. Ray Trusner, 30 West Third St., New Albany, Ind., says: "Kidney disease had rendered me a chronic invalid. I lay in bed unable to move hand or foot. My right limb was swollen to twice normal size. I looked the picture of death and my case puzzled the doctors. The kidney secretions were highly colored and scalded terribly. Marked improvement followed the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. In six weeks I was a well woman. My friends and relatives marvel at my recovery."

Talking to the Child.

"Mrs. X—— talks to little Madge just as Mr. X—— talks to their dog," said a little girl of a neighboring family. And it was indeed true. Mrs. X—— is a very well-meaning woman and would be greatly surprised if she should hear the foregoing statement. She has simply unconsciously acquired a harsh tone of voice in dealing with her children. This is altogether unnecessary and is not, as many mothers seem to think, a mark of good discipline. The mother whose manner is quiet but firm is generally a much more successful disciplinarian than the harsh-voiced mother who issues her commands in a dictatorial manner. Kindness never spoils children. It is flabby indecision, sometimes mistaken for kindness, which spoils them.

HOW A DOCTOR CURED SCALP DISEASE

"When I was ten or twelve years old I had a scalp disease, something like scald head, though it wasn't that. I suffered for several months, and most of my hair came out. Finally they had a doctor to see me and he recommended the Cuticura Remedies. They cured me in a few weeks. I have used the Cuticura Remedies, also, for a breaking out on my hands and was benefited a great deal. I haven't had any more trouble with the scalp disease. Miss Jessie F. Buchanan, R. F. D. 3, Hamilton, Ga., Jan. 7, 1909."

Kept with Barnum's Circus.

P. T. Barnum, the famous circus man, once wrote: "I have had the Cuticura Remedies among the contents of my medicine chest with my shows for the last three seasons, and I can cheerfully certify that they were very effective in every case which called for their use."

Something Dreadful.

Wee Anita was listening to a story of the Johnstown flood.

"What made it?" she asked.

"Oh, the dam broke," replied grandma.

The next morning she ran into her brother's room and, climbing up on the bed, inquired anxiously: "Buvver, wasn't it just dreffel 'bout that swear breaking and killing all dose people?"

A Woman's Backbone.

History records many instances where a woman has shown that she possessed clear grit—commonly called Backbone. She must have, to be able to half kill herself over a washtub every week. Women are learning now, however, that if they use Easy Task soap in the laundry it means half the work done while they rest, their clothes are cleaner and sweeter, their hands are not red and ugly, their flannels do not shrink and their linens do not rot.

Then It Happened.

"What made you think he would propose to me?"

"Why, when I refused him he said he didn't care what became of him; but perhaps he wasn't serious."—Houston Post.

His Peculiar Predicament

By STACY E. BAKER

Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press

"Lukesd-a-a-ale!" shouted the conductor.

The fussy, little old gentleman with the numerous packages, and the tall, broadshouldered youth occupying the seat in front of him, hastily seized their belongings and bolted for the door. Lukesdale is a small stop.

Hardly were the two safe on the rough boards bounding the station before the older man's parcels began to slip and slide in an awkward way, and, but for the hasty assistance of the other, the majority of them would have fallen.

"Thank you," wheezed the suburbanite. "You are a stranger hereabout, are you not?"

"This is my first trip to Lukesdale," smiled the young man. He reached for his card case, then realizing that it would be a physical impossibility for the old gentleman to accept it and retain possession of his purchases, he said:

"My name is Hampton. I have an aunt living here whom I shall visit. Can you direct me to the residence of Miss Cornelia Wade?"

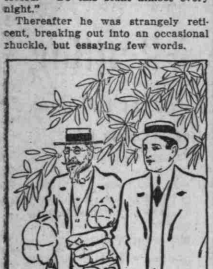

The other eyed his companion curiously. A half smile flashed on his lips.

"I go right by the house," he answered. "My name is Warren. Pleased to make your acquaintance, Hampton. I hope we shall know each other better before you leave town."

It was now about nine o'clock in the evening and beginning to get dark. Hampton was thankful for the company of the other, and having nothing but his own light suit case to carry, attempted to relieve his guide of some of his load.

To this the old man strenuously objected. "I'm used to it," he protested. "Do this stunt almost every night."

Thereafter he was strangely reticent, breaking out into an occasional chuckle, but essaying few words.

"A Most Eccentric Old Chap," Thought the Youth.

"A most eccentric old chap," thought the youth, but after one or two attempts to start a conversation he humored the old man's mood.

The streets of Lukesdale were a credit to the town, and this helped a great deal, because the lights were conspicuously inadequate. The little burg seemed to have been laid out all on one street.

At last the two drew near a large domicile, aristocratic in appearance, and towering majestically above its neighbors.

"Your destination," said Warren, pointing.

It was now dark. The windows of the house were ablaze.

Up the broad path leading to the spacious veranda the two strode. A burst of girlish laughter came suddenly out to them, and Warren again chuckled.

"I had understood that my aunt lives alone," remarked Hampton, uneasily.

"Then she must have company," suggested the old gentleman dryly. "That certainly isn't her voice."

A mind picture of his glum relative, sharp featured, suspicious eyed, flashed for an instant before the mind's eye of Hampton. Warren was right. Miss Wade must be entertaining.

Warren surprised the youth by stepping up to the door, and in a perfectly at home manner, flinging it wide open.

"Enter," he wheezed, dramatically, and as Hampton, dazzled by the light, obeyed the voice of the old gentleman followed him across the threshold. "This is Mr. Hampton of New York, come to visit his aunt, Miss Cornelia Wade."

The door slammed shut, and the sound of hasty feet descending the steps on the other side caused Hampton to turn in surprise. He was alone. His guide had gone.

The blindness now partially left the youth. He turned to confront two young girls, evidently sisters, and a smiling elderly woman.

"Uncle Oscar is so eccentric," said one of the girls, advancing toward Hampton, and relieving him of his suit case. His eyes caught the ruddy gleam of her hair, the cloud-blue of her eyes. A spot of red dotted, for a passing second, the white of her cheeks.

"I am Virginia," said the girl simply. "Let me introduce my mother and my sister, Louise."

The two women came forward. Louise was a young maid, in looks and actions the double of the fair Virginia. She had the same graceful carriage; the same rich voice.

"Oscar is a tease," contributed the matron. "One—especially a stranger—never knows how to take him." Her laughing eyes peered out at Hampton and a roguish twinkle told of a kindred love for humor.

"But," ventured Hampton, ill at ease, "I am sure there has been a mistake. I—"

"Oh, we all understand," laughed Virginia. "We all know Uncle Oscar."

"But—"

"Positively no explanations. They are not needed."

"I only wish you understood," half whispered Hampton, gazing wistfully at the girl. She had made a great impression on the youth from the city. With a social footing in New York second to none, and an income that had allowed him to travel extensively, he had imagined that the gentler sex had palled upon him. Hence this early-spring flitting to Lukesdale. He was cloyed with society—and women.

This girl was a revelation. Confident of poise, cool, wholly at ease, under what must be to her, to say the least, singular circumstances, she was, withal, prettily natural and simple.

"Probably Mr. Hampton wishes to bathe his hands after his long ride on that hateful accommodation."

It was the elderly woman who spoke. "Show him to his room, Virginia. He can join us at his convenience."

With a resigned sigh, Hampton followed the maid. Some one had been expected by these good people. In a short time the proper guest would arrive, and then—well, Hampton, impostor, would be kicked out. This would end his acquaintance with this rare maid.

Timidly, Hampton again entered the parlor.

A wheezy voice greeted him. "How d'ye do, Hampton? Feeling refreshed?"

The young New Yorker glared at the returned joker. Uncle Oscar shifted about uneasily under the prolonged and eloquent stare.

"Um-m-m," ventured Uncle Oscar. "I guess I'll have to speak with Hampton alone for a moment.

Unceremoniously he dragged the youth into the library.

"It's all right," he interrupted, rising a pudgy hand to the young man's wrathy vociferations. "It's all right, Hampton. Don't get excited. I met your aunt on my trip to the city—personally acquainted with her, you know. She was called away suddenly to the bedside of a sick friend, and she asked me to find you and bring you here to my sister's home, where she had made arrangements for you to stay until her return. Satisfied?"

"Surely," beamed the youth. "More than satified. I like—"

"Yes, I see you do," said the old man. "Virginia likes you, too. See how she blushed when you came back—eh? Well, good luck to you, Hampton. As for me, I'm going home." The old man disappeared down the hall leading to the street door. Hampton hurried back to the parlor.

Illegible Signatures.

Occasionally you may receive a letter from the man whose signature at the bottom of the letter couldn't have been read by himself if someone else had put it over on him.

He dashes in at the upper left hand corner of the signature place as if he were a scroll designing artist, romps across it, comes back near the point of beginning, and with a swirl or two completes the second initial, after which he buttonwns his name in ful and more, winding up with a pen slash that would scar a man's face worse than five hatpins 18 inches long.

And when you write to him he's sore and embarrassed if you haven't written his initials and name rightly in the address.

There are just two recourses that you may have in trying to decipher the name in full. His letterhead paper may contain his name if he's at all important in the organization—providing, of course, that you have enough hunch in the signature to trace it in print.

That other recourse as to the initial letters of Christian and surnames may be found in a possible stenographer's adderdum, "EPG—K." This means that the stenographer "K" has taken the dictated letter from "EPG," who has written to you.

The man who told me I know nothing about religion, because I know nothing about Greek, knew nothing about me because he knew nothing about Dutch.

Usually a Low Character.

"And what is the object of the goodle investigation?"

"We are trying to dig down to the man higher up."

APPALACHIAN EXPO.

OPENS AT KNOXVILLE, TENN., SEPTEMBER 12 AND CONTINUES FOR A MONTH.

EXPOSITION READY FOR OPENING

Taft and Roosevelt Will Visit the Exposition—Other Notables Expect—Magnificent Grounds and Exhibits.

Knoxville, Tenn.—The Appalachian Exposition, to be held in this city from September 12 to October 15, is nearing completion. The buildings and grounds have been completed for some weeks and already a large number of exhibits are installed. With the lengthening of the sun's rays on Saturday prior to the opening day, one will view an exposition complete in all its component parts, and the vitalizing forces that have so valiantly labored for the past year to bring this exposition to its full fruition will rest a bare 24 hours before the mighty pageant of the waiting population will present itself at the portals of this Appalachian lesson of progress and development and march through the gates.

From every section comes the greatest encouragement. If any proposition ever took on the glorious colors of the rainbow in advance the Appalachian Exposition is certainly reflecting back every prismatic hue. The Board of Directors, headed by the valiant Wm. J. Oliver, have returned from making a spectacular whirl by special train through the South, touching the leading cities, and at every point they were accorded an enthusiastic reception and received thousands of assurances that the major portion of the populace of the cities visited will be present at the exposition.

Among the many notables who will attend the exposition none will be more cordially welcomed and graciously received than President Wm. H. Taft and ex-President Theodore Roosevelt. The exposition officials have positive and personal assurances from them that they will honor the exposition with their presence.

The date for President Taft's visit has not been definitely determined, but it will be the last of September or early in October. However, Col. Roosevelt has fixed October 7 as the time for his visit to the exposition. Spanish-American war veterans' day will be celebrated on October 7, and Col. Roosevelt, being a Spanish war veteran himself, will take a lively and leading part in the exercises of that date. He will deliver an address to his comrades of '98, and he will hold a reception at which he will meet personally and shake the hands of thousands of the boys of the north and south.

The governors of Tennessee Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, North and South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama have been invited to attend the exposition. It is expected that these chief executives will attend, representing their respective states officially. Gov. M. R. Patterson, of Tennessee, will be present on the opening day of the exposition, September 12, and will deliver a formal address and otherwise participate in the opening of the great events.

The United States government is giving much encouragement to the exposition. Extensive exhibits have been prepared, by order of the heads of various departments, and these are being installed at the exposition buildings and grounds.

Few people realize the magniture of the live stock exhibit and horse show which will be held in connection with the Appalachian Exposition. The live stock exhibit will extend through the first week of the exposition period, the dates for this exhibit being September 12 to 17, inclusive. In perfecting the details for this great exhibit, nothing has been left undone to make it outstanding in every particular.

The pyrotechnic feature of the exposition will be important. Great displays of Pain's pyrotechnic presentations will be given every night during the first week of the exposition.

One of the very attractive features of the exposition will be the six days' race meeting, September 12 to 17. In order to put this race meeting on a basis which would be in keeping with the extensive scope of the exposition, it has set aside $6,600 to be given in purses, making it decidedly the largest event of the kind ever attempted in East Tennessee.

KENTUCKY GLEANINGS

WHAT IS GOING ON IN DIFFERENT SECTIONS OF THE COMMONWEALTH

ROOSEVELT IN CINCINNATI

Councilmen Presented Him With Engraved Set of Resolutions of Greeting.

Cincinnati. — Councilman-at-Large Samuel Moyer was elected by council a committee of one to present ex-President Theodore Roosevelt when he reached Cincinnati with a beautifully engraved set of resolutions of greeting adopted by council. The resolutions were adopted by a rising vote, the seven Democratic members joining with their Republican fellows.

The resolutions are as follows:

"The City of Cincinnati to Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Patriot—Greetings: On this occasion of celebration and rejoicing commemorative of the evident progress of the Ohio river improvement, we pause to welcome you to our home. Your achievements have not only merited our respect, but your manliness and courage in espousing the cause of righteousness between man and man as a national attribute has gained for you our love and esteem. You have been signally honored throughout the civilized world, and so, without presuming to again honor you, but rather to honor ourselves, and in token of the sincerity of our welcome, the freedom of the city is hereby conferred upon you.

Adopted by the council of the City of Cincinnati, September 6, 1910.

OTTO J. RENNER,
President Pro Tem. of Council.
Attest: J. CARROLL, Acting Clerk.

Mr. Moyer will meet the ex-President at the Torrence road station.

Roosevelt went to the home of Congressman and Mrs. Longworth upon his arrival. An informal reception in honor of Col. Roosevelt at "Rookwood" followed Roosevelt's speech in Music hall.

NEW GROCERY COMPANY.

Will Pay Special Attention to Handling Grain and Country Produce.

Hopkinsville.—The W. A. Chambers Wholesale Grocery Co. has been incorporated here. The capital stock is $50,000 and the company will do a wholesale grocery business at this place, and will pay special attention to the handling of country produce and grain.

The prime movers in the new concern are W. A. Chambers, of Clarksville, Tenn., and T. J. McReynolds, vice president of the Planters' Bank and Trust Co., of this city. The company will absorb a branch house of the W. A. Chambers Co., of Clarksville, which has been doing business here for a few years, the new company being independent of any other firm. They have bought a large two-story warehouse fronting on the L. & N. railroad and this is now being fitted up for them.

ASK FOR FRANCHISE.

New Bridge and Railroad Company Apply to Owensboro Council.

Owensboro.—The Owensboro & Rockport Bridge & Terminal Co. made application to the city council to pass an ordinance, giving it the right of way down the river front of this city. The company has had a corps of engineers in the field for some time, and has options on right of way through much of the land between Owensboro and Rockport, both in Kentucky and Indiana.

The plan contemplates the building of a bridge at or near this point, and if the plan is ultimately successful it will give Owensboro a direct northern outlet.

TWO FIRES AT OWENSBORO.

Owensboro.—Representative P. W. Berkshire suffered the loss of a barn which was struck by lightning and burned. All of his farming implements were in the barn at the time of the fire and were consumed. The barn also contained about 200 bales of hay, belonging to Ed Barry. The loss was only partly covered by insurance. Mr. Berkshire had no insurance on his barn, having allowed the policy to lapse only a few days before the fire.

Fire of unknown origin damaged the grocery store belonging to C. O. Brown here to the extent of $1,000. The loss was covered by insurance.

Glasgow.—The large general merchandise store at Jennie, in the northern part of this county, was burned. The fire occurred after midnight and had gotten beyond all control when discovered. The loss is about $5,000, with a small insurance.

This about the fifth store burned in the surrounding section within the past two weeks, and notwithstanding local officers are doing all in their power to capture the firebugs, all efforts so far have failed and the work of destruction continues, first in one section and later in another.

SON SHOOTS FATHER.

Parent Was Making Arrangements to Attend Gathering When Trouble Started.

Glasgow.—Payton Copass, 20 years old, shot and instantly killed his father, Jim Copass, near Bon Air, ten miles from here, in this county. Jim Copass, who is 50 years old, has been living apart from his wife and family for several years, but has all along paid frequent visits to his children. He called and made arrangements to carry the children to a gathering of some kind at Merry Oaks. While there trouble arose between the father and son, and the son ordered the father out of the yard.

The father obeyed, and just as he passed through the gate the son shot him with a shotgun, the charge taking effect in the neck, severing the wind pipe and killing the victim instantly. The son immediately surrendered to Deputy Sheriff Will Steffey. All parties are prominent in that section, and considerable excitement prevails.

Kentucky Intelligence

Henderson.—The tobacco barn of J. W. Toy, a prominent farmer residing near Anthoston, burned, causing a loss of $1,200. Mr. Toy was firing his crop of eight acres of tobacco when the accident occurred. He carried no insurance.

Paducah.—Without a word of warning or assigning any cause for the rash act, David Hankins, 48 years old, walked into the front yard of his home at Metropolis, Ill., and shot himself through the head. Death was instantaneous. He was a well-known liveryman and stock dealer.

Lancaster.—Judge L. L. Walker, who was lately appointed circuit judge in the thirteenth district to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge M. C. Saufley, has chosen R. H. Batson, of this city, Republican, as master commissioner. Mr. Batson is the father of Judge Homer W. Batson, of Louisville.

Carlisle.—J. P. Whittinghill, of Paducah, deputy state revenue agent, and a large force of assistants are at work in the county clerk's office here examining records preparatory to instituting suits for back taxes on alleged omitted assessments in Nicholas county. They are going back five years in the work.

Newport.—While returning from a picnic in a rowboat, Mrs. W. J. Diemal and her three daughters, Marie, aged 8; Ethel, aged 3, and a baby, aged one year, were drowned in the Licking river. The husband and father, W. J. Diemal, with his two sons and Jacob Fried, his wife and sons, escaped. They started for the city in a rowboat, the boat suddenly ran into a submerged log and upset.

Jackson.—Bail was granted to John Davidson and Hacker Combs, in the sum of $7,000 each; Tom Davidson and Jason Deaton, $6,000 each, who are charged with killing John Abner, by Special Judge A. J. Clark, after hearing the evidence and speeches by J. C. Adams and Commonwealth's Attorney Johnson. Bail was also granted Sam Watkins, charged with killing Floyd Napier, in the sum of $3,000.

Lexington.—More than 500 men are out as a result of the recent strike declared at a number of mines in the Southeastern Kentucky coal fields. Reports received here are to the effect that fully 1,000 men will be out before the end of the week. A demand for higher wages and the right to organize are the principal points in controversy. The mines affected are located in the Pineville district, Bell and adjoining counties.

Hickman.—Cato Davis, one of the oldest citizens of this county, died at his home at Woodland Mills, seven miles from here, of general decline. He was born in Virginia, going to California during the gold fever and remaining there seven years, and then located in Woodland in 1856, where he had since resided. He was well known all over this part of the country. He is survived by his wife and six children.

Louisville.—Mrs. Frances Lipps, 37 years old, shot and killed her husband, Joseph E. Lipps, 53 years old, at their home. Immediately following the shooting Mrs. Lipps was arrested and a charge of murder was placed against her. She was remanded to jail without bond. Mrs. Lipps claims she fired in self-defense when her husband attacked her with a razor. A razor was found in the room where the shooting took place.

Carlisle.—John M. Campbell, former county clerk of Nicholas county, was elected city assessor of Carlisle by the city council to fill the unexpired term of Leslie S. Hughes, who resigned to accept an appointment as deputy clerk of the Nicholas circuit court. Mr. Campbell defeated Albert Wilson, his opponent, by a vote of 5 to 1. Col. Thomas S. Watson, who was a candidate, withdrew from the race before the election took place.

Hawesville.—One of the largest bin houses of the Hawesville Elevator Co. broke down under the strain of 20,000 bushels of shelled corn and collapsed. The grain all ran out on the river bank and scores of hands were put to work to sack it up before rain came and spoiled it. Nearly all the grain will be saved, but the bin house itself is a total wreck.

Louisville.—Thomas J. Hancock, 53 years old, superintendent of the hospital of the Confederate Veterans' home at Pewee Valley, died of heart disease. His wife and two daughters survive.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Need Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Brookfield, Mo.—"Two years ago I was unable to do any kind of work and only weighed 118 pounds. My trouble dates back to the time that women may expect nature to bring on them the Change of Life. I got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it made me feel much better, and I have continued its use. I am very grateful to you for the good health I am now enjoying."—Mrs. SARAH LOUSIGNONT, 414 S. Livingston Street, Brookfield, Mo.

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease and pain.

Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs.

For 30 years it has been curing women from the worst forms of female ills—inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and nervous prostration.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

Opportunity of Suffragist.

Baroness Aletta Korff tells in one of the magazines how the women of Finland came to vote. The fact is that women had to show that they could meet an emergency before the vote came to them. They have not had many opportunities to take the initiative in the world's history and they have not always responded when the opportunity came, but when a crisis, such as that in 1904, when the strike and the revolutionary outbreak in Russia took place at the same time, occurred, they proved they could make peace by doing it. Not until England and the United States find the women helping them to bear some great trouble will they give them the right to vote.

Try to Come Back.

Not long ago Lord Kinnard, who is always actively interested in religious work, paid a surprise visit to a mission school in the east end of London and told a class of boys the story of Samson. Introducing his narrative, his lordship added:

"He was strong, became weak, and then regained his strength, enabling him to destroy his enemies. Now, boys, if I had an enemy, what would you advise me to do?"

A little boy, after meditating on the secret of that great giant's strength, shot up his hand and exclaimed: "Get a bottle of hair restorer."

Scandal.

Mrs. Simmonds glanced at the scare headline: "Bank Robbed! Police at Sea!" and laid down the sheet.

"Now, look at that, Ez!" she ejaculated, repeating the headline aloud. "Here's a big city bank broke into by burglars, and th' city police force all off fishin' somewhere! What a scandal!"—Judge.

Partly Made Over.

"Weren't we engaged last summer?" inquired the girl.

"Your face is familiar," faltered the man.

"Well, I'll forgive you for not recognizing me. My hair and figure are new."

Boys just will play harum-scarum games. That's nature's way of making them strong and sturdy. Nature didn't seem to think much about leather when she planned that way, for it's surprising how quickly a boy can "run through his shoes." You can't get around nature. The best plan, the most economical thing to do, is to get your boy the strongest, most durable shoe you can buy—the

Security School Shoes
For Boys For Girls

These shoes are made of the best leather, especially selected. The boys shoes are made by the welt process—the best known method of fastening soles and uppers together. The girls shoes are made in both welt and turn soles.

They are made on good fitting lasts and will not hurt the feet or injure their shape. Both boys and girls shoes are dressy and attractive looking with wonderful wearing qualities.

These Shoes are well worth $3, but in order to introduce them I am offering them at the extra low price of $2.50

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Annie McChord to Rev. W. H. Williams. The wedding will be solemnized Wednesday, September 21, 1910, at 4:30 p. m., at the Presbyterian church, Rev. R. E. C. Lawson, officiating.

The public sale of C. C. Christie last Wednesday was not largely attended, owing to the very busy season Milk cows were active, ranging in price from $40 to $77. Hogs brought satisfactory prices. Horses sold reasonably well. The 2 year-old saddle stallion, Bucephalus, No. 3606, A. S. H. R., was purchased by W. W. McElroy, of Lebanon, for $405. Clair, the saddle mare, No. 6011, A. S. H. R., went to J. H. Christie, of Lebanon, for $210. Other stock brought fair prices.

Mrs. Nannie B. Simpson, wife of Geo. Simpson, died at her home in Lebanon last Wednesday, of catarrh of the stomach. The funeral services were held Friday at the Baptist church and the remains were interred in Ryder cemetery. Mrs. Simpson, who before her marriage was Nannie B. Gordon, was born in this county in 1838, and was 72 years of age at the time of her death. In 1860 she was married to Geo. Simpson, and to this union were born four daughters, of whom two survive.

It Drives Away Stomach Distress in a Few Minutes. Stops Heartburn and Belching.

If you have anything the matter with your stomach you ought to know right now that now that MI-O-NA stomach tablets are guaranteed by the Leo Haydon Drug Co. to cure indigestion or any sickness caused by indigestion, such as the following, or money back.

Sick headache, biliousness, dizziness, nervousness, sour stomach, fermentation of food, belching of gas, heavy feeling at pit of stomach, vomiting of pregnancy.

If your meals don't digest but lie like a lump of lead in your stomach; if you have foul breath and loss of appetite, a few MI-O-NA tablets will put your stomach in fine shape in short order.

If you or any of your family suffer from stomach trouble of any kind, get a 50 cent box of MI-O-NA tablets at once. The Leo Haydon Drug Co. and druggists everywhere sell MI-O-NA on money back plan.

"I was cured of dyspepsia that had assumed the nervous form, by the use of MI-O-NA and I praise MI-O-NA highly. My trouble got me weak and nervous so that I could not sleep; the bowels were constipated and I had sharp shooting pains through the kidney regions, and hard, dull backaches. MI-O-NA is worth its weight in gold."—Walter Tebo, St. Clair, Mich.

LAND SALE

Saturday, September 17, 1910
At 2:30 o'clock, p. m.

At the late residence of Thos. W. Reed, one-half mile from Willisburg, Ky., we will offer for sale to the highest and best bidder, at public outcry, about

300 Acres of Land

LYING NEAR WILLISBURG, KY. THIS IS ONE OF THE BEST TOBACCO FARMS IN THE BURLEY DISTRICT.

The farm lays well and has on it a good eight-room dwelling, all necessary outbuildings, 2 stock barns, large tobacco barn, 3 Tenant houses, is well watered and is in a high state Cultivation, and has on it about 30 acres of Timber and a large quantity of fine Locust Trees. The Springfield and Willisburg turnpike runs through the farm and divides it into nearly two equal parts, on one side of the pike is the residence, tenant house, stock and tobacco barns, on the other side are two tenant houses and about one-half of the timber. This farm will be offered in two tracts and then as a whole and sold in the manner so as to realize the most money.

This is a most desirably located farm, very productive, close to School and Church, and is sold only because it is necessary in order to distribute an estate.

TERMS:—One-fourth on or before March 1, 1911, and the remainder in three equal installments, due on or before 1, 2 and 3 years from March 1, 1911, with interest from Jan. 1, 1911, payable annually with precipitating clause, and lien retained on the land to secure payment of purchase money notes. The purchaser will be required to give bond with good personal security for the first payment of the purchase price due March 1, 1911.

Any person desiring to look over the premises before the day of sale will call upon T. J. Miller, Springfield, Ky., or Dr. W. W. Hyatt, Willisburg, Ky., who will take pleasure in giving all information desired.

Sudden Death.

The uncertainty of life was again brought home to our community in the sudden death of Mrs. F. F. Gholson, sister of C. R. McWhorter. Mrs. Gholson, whose home is near Paducah, had come to visit her brother on Tuesday, in apparently good health. On Friday she was attacked by hernia, a disease with which she had been troubled before and on Saturday morning she died. She leaves a husband and eight children and other relatives and friends to mourn her untimely death. The remains were taken back to Paducah for interment. Mrs. Gholson was a devout member of the Christian church, and her consecrated Christian character had endeared her to a host of friends and it now forms life's dearest memory and inspiration to those she leaves behind.

SERIAL STORY

An Heir to Millions

By Frederick Reddale
Author of "The Other Man" etc.

Illustrations by Ray Walters

(Copyright, by J. B. Lippincott Co.)

SYNOPSIS.

Andy Meleen, aged millionaire miner, is dying and orders a will drawn up, leaving all his property to the son of a sister of whom he has heard nothing for years, and whose married name he does not know. Meleen was married years before, but left his wife after a quarrel in which he struck her. He learned later that she and their daughter were dead. The scene shifts to New York, introducing Wilfrid Stennis, who is telling his fiancee, Eunice Trevecca, what he would do if he were the possessor of wealth. In the law office of Carboy, Passavant & Covine, attorneys for the estate of Meleen, Roger Hews reports the result of his search for heirs of Meleen. He conceals the fact that he has discovered that Meleen's daughter is living. Wilfrid Stennis replies to an advertisement for information concerning his dead mother, Martha Meleen, and is told that he is the heir to Andy Meleen's millions. He wants to marry Eunice at once, but she resolutely demurs. He meets Clara Passavant, frivolous daughter of the attorney. Eunice becomes jealous of Wilfrid's attentions to Clara. He builds a yacht and starts on a trip abroad, the Passavants being included in the party. Roger Hews, having discovered that Eunice Trevecca is the daughter of Andy Meleen, plans to use the information to his own advantage. He proposes to Eunice and is rejected. Jaded after two years of gaiety in Europe, Wilfrid returns and immediately calls on Eunice. His attempts to renew old relations with her meet with no encouragement. Roger Hews becomes Wilfrid's secretary. The engagement of Clara Passavant and Wilfrid is announced. Hews is again rejected by Eunice, and reveals his true nature.

"You'll get the proofs fast enough when I'm ready to give 'em out. What I want to know first is, are y' open to make a deal?"

"Explain yourself," said Wilfrid with admirable self-control.

"I say y're a fraud; that y're not the true heir; that a word from me'll turn y' out heck and crop tomorrow. Now, how much is it wuth to hush the hull thing and go on as y've been doing?"

"You must be a little more explicit, Mr. Hews," said Wilfrid gently, upon whom the conviction was forcing itself that he had to deal with a maniac whom it were best to humor. "You cannot expect me to make any arrangement—a deal, you call it—in the dark. I must first know what it is all about."

But the next words of Roger Hews dispelled this idea. The situation was actually serious, as was perhaps best indicated by the savagely insolent manner of the man.

"I've got evidence t' show—legal evidence, mind y'—that Andy Meleen left a daughter, born in lawful wedlock, although he didn't suspect it when he made his will. That girl's alive yet. Nobody knows it now but me, and I can pervooce her any minute. You've got keen enough to see that in any court of equity this knocks you out completely. If only Andy'd 'a' known it, you wouldn't 'a' been in it at all. These three years past you've been spending her money—money belonging to Andy Meleen's orphan daughter!"

"Go on," said Wilfrid, looking Hews squarely in the eye as the latter paused to note the effect of this knockdown statement.

"As I was sayin', not a soul knows this but me. How I know it is my business. I do know it, an' I'm prove it. The girl doesn't dream of it, neither does her—her folks. Now, then, here you stand: You're fond of soft living—I can see that; you've got in with the smart set, you're engaged to be married to one of 'em, and you're personally liable to Andy Meleen's estate for every dollar you've spent of his money. That's so, ain't it?"

Wilfrid nodded assent, merely for argument's sake, his eyes still glued to the face of his tormentor.

"Then I ask you, as man to man: What's it worth to you to purchase this information?"

"Meaning what is it worth to me to buy your silence?" inquired Stennis.

"That's what I mean, exactly!" ejaculated Hews with cool effrontery.

Stennis studied the man's face, with its assumption of easy swagger and a gleam in the eyes of deadly hatred and malice. Then he spoke in low and level tones:

"Before we go any further, Mr. Hews, let me have the satisfaction of telling you to your face that you are an infernal scoundrel!"

"I've been told that before in my business," retorted Hews, with a callous laugh. "It don't hurt any. The question is, Are you in on this deal? There's others'll pay for the stuff if you won't."

"That's my business; there's no need for you to know—leastways not yet."

"And her name?"

"That's another secret," laughed Hews, with a cunning wink.

"We'll see about that," commented Wilfrid significantly. "If what you say be true, I am probably her nearest relative. Besides, you idiot, don't you suppose I can find out after what you have told me already?"

"Perhaps you can," admitted Hews, "but you're not going to be such a ninny. You're safe in possession; if you do the right thing by me, the thing's dead and buried so far as I'm concerned."

"What is your price?" demanded Wilfrid, apparently getting down to business.

Roger Hews drew a long breath and moistened his lips nervously. It was a crucial moment.

"Now you're talkin'," he began. "I won't be too hard on you. All the same, I want a fair rake-off. Suppose we say $5,000,000. Cash, mind! You'll never miss it, and that'll about set me up for life."

"And supposing that I close with this very liberal offer of yours, what assurance have I that in the near future you will not be at my heels again with a similar demand? I've always heard that the way of the transgressor who pays hush-money is hard."

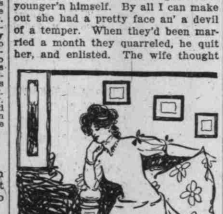

"I'll put all the proofs in your hands and you can destroy 'em," exclaimed Hews eagerly. That five millions began to take tangible shape.

"What is the nature of these so-called proofs?" inquired Stennis. Roger considered a moment, then:

"Mostly documents—copies of marriage and death certificates, and affidavits of various persons bearin' on the case. Of course, my story comes in an' makes the hull thing plain; but I shall be mum if you come to terms."

"I see," said Stennis, appearing to fall in with Roger's proposition. "But suppose you go a little further and outline the situation for me, Mr. Hews. You need not mention names or dates unless you choose. I may as well tell you plainly I am not going into this thing with my eyes shut. I must know how the case stands."

"Well, I guess that's only fair. Here's the story in a nutshell: Nearly 30 years ago, when y'r uncle was a man of 45, he married a girl much younger'n himself. By all I can make out she had a pretty face an' a devil of a temper. When they'd been married a month they quarreled, he quit her, and enlisted. The wife thought he'd deserted her, so, havin' to shift for herself, she left the place where she was known, went to another town some miles away, dropped her married name, resoomed her maiden name, and passed herself off as a widder. In due course a daughter was born, and about the same time the news come to her that she really was a widow. Andy Meleen being reported as killed in battle. So bein', as she supposed, legally free, she married again, and died a year later, a second infant, also a girl, bein' with her. Your uncle heard of this latter event and thought it was his child that died. But this wasn't so. The Meleen girl thrived and grew up under the care of her stepfather, who never knew that his marriage to her mother was illegal, Andy bein' alive all the time."

"You Must Take Me Away to Europe."

During this interesting recital some things became clear to Stennis.

"Presumably you found out all this when, as you told me, you were sent east after my uncle's death?"

"Some of it—not all," admitted Hews with cheerful candor.

"Why did you not you acquaint the lawyers with the true state of affairs?"

"Well, you see," replied Hews, with another knowing wink, "at that time I only suspicioned certain things. I meant to work up the case later. If the fact turned out to be as I thought, it looked as though a good thing might be made out of it."

"Meaning to turn it to account with me afterwards?" inquired Stennis.

"Sure!" was the unabashed answer, now that his unsuspected plot to marry Eunice had ignominiously failed.

Silence ensued, both men being busy with their thoughts; Hews looked for a quick and easy capitulation. At length Wilfrid spoke again:

"How much time will you allow me to consider this proposal of yours?" he inquired composedly.

"Time? Why, how much time do y' want? Not a day, not an hour! It's take it or leave it, now or never!"

"I rather think I'll leave it, Mr. Hews," drawled Wilfrid, a half-smile lifting one corner of his tawny mustache.

"You'll never do it!" exclaimed the astounded and mortified Hews.

"Won't I?" queried Stennis. "You have made one grand mistake, Mr. Hews: You took me for as big a rogue as yourself! A fool I may be, but not that! Why, you despicable villain, do you imagine I would conspire with such a rat as you to defraud a woman, a motherless girl, and she my own flesh and blood?"

The tempter stared at the tempted in blank dismay. That any one with a sane head on his shoulders should reject such a plain business proposition passed the moral comprehension of Roger Hews—a man without a conscience.

"And now I'll tell you what you may do," said Stennis, hugely enjoying the other's discomfiture. "You can go right downtown and tell Mr. Passavant what you have just told me."

"See here, Mr. Stennis," began the other, cringing, anxiously.

"Not another word on that subject, Mr. Hews," insisted Wilfrid decidedly. "But first I will trouble you to write the name and address of that young lady, my cousin."

"I'll be damned if I do!" retorted Hews passionately.

"You'll certainly be damned if you don't!" exclaimed Wilfrid grimly, clutching his riding-whip firmly and advancing towards the now trembling conspirator. "The name, you scoundrel, before I shake it out of you!"

"Oh, you know her well enough, curse you!" he blurted out. "It's Eunice Trevecca!"

Stennis fell back a pace, his face the picture of blank wonder and astonishment.

"Eunice Trevecca!" he gasped. "She my cousin and the daughter of Andrew Meleen!"

"That's what I said!" Hews answered sullenly. And then, with vehement spite, he added: "A sweet mess you've made of it in that quarter, haven't you? If you'd only played your cards right, you'd have been her husband by this time and fingered the money anyhow."

But Stennis, if he heard them, paid no attention to the words; his brain was busy taking in the full significance of this amazing climax to the strange disclosures of the day, the truth of which he could no longer doubt. However, this was no time for connected thinking; the main thing was to let the truth be known at once.

He went to the door and unlocked it, then turned to the crestfallen Hews with these words:

"Oblige me by immediately taking your story and your proofs to Mr. Passavant. He will duly value your information quite as extravagantly as you do, but he will doubtless pay you something for your trouble. As for Miss Trevecca—I shall have the pleasure of breaking the news to her myself!"

CHAPTER X.

"I was never so sorely disappointed in any one before," said Horatio Passavant pathetically to Clara after recounting to her the complete collapse of fortune that had come to Wilfrid Stennis.

"Will he have nothing at all?" inquired Miss Passavant, the money, as usual, uppermost in her mind.

"Under the will he could legally hold on to all, but if Miss Trevecca chose to contest she could probably break it, seeing that the instrument was executed under a total misapprehension on the part of the testator. But Stennis insists upon relinquishing everything—quite quixotically, as I told him; but he is obdurate. He says it is what Andrew Meleen would have wished, and declares he is going to earn his own living once more."

"I admire him for that," said Clara, with a half-sigh.

"What shall you do, my dear?" inquired the lawyer anxiously.

"You must take me away to Europe at once, papa; it will be all over town in 24 hours, and I will not permit myself to be commiserated or made the recipient of polite condolences."

"Perhaps that would be the best thing," assented the old worldling. "Carboy is coming on, and I can get him to take charge of the office for awhile."

Clara had her way, as usual, and thus escaped much of the gossip anent the breaking-off of the marriage. A year later she married a Russian count twice her age, and New York society knew her no more.

It was even as lawyer Passavant had said. Wilfrid chivalrously refused to touch another dollar of Andrew Meleen's money!

The interview between him and Eunice Trevecca, though very brief, was a touching and a trying one. Acting on one of those boyish impulses which will never leave him, and actuated by an exalted idea of making restitution and doing penance, he rode and walked straight to Macdougal street after leaving Roger Hews.

Have You This Habit?

"One funny thing I have learned about human nature," said the drug store cashier, "is the habit many people have of marking their own name in the city directory. They do that because the directory is the only place where their own name gets into print, and it has such a fascination for them that they can't resist calling attention to it. A funny old man who likes to talk tells me that he has made special trips to different parts of the city just to mark his name in the directories of the neighborhood. He puts a little cross in red ink before it. I asked him what good it did. He said none possibly, although he is a teacher of languages and may get a few calls on account of that queer advertisement.

"But his is an exceptional case. Not many persons spend time and money in hunting city directories, but every time they happen to see a new one they can't help looking up their name and putting some kind of a mark around it."

SUCCESS IN DEVELOPING PROFITABLE SHEEP FLOCK

Farmers Must First Get Away From Belief That Animals May Be Kept as Scavengers—Start With Well-Bred Ewes.

If we make a success of keeping a flock of sheep on our farms we must get away from the common belief that sheep may be kept as scavengers. While it is a fact that sheep will clean up weeds and briars, and manage to exist on poor pasture, yet this is only incidental.

If we keep a flock of sheep as scavengers they soon assume the appearance that their purpose so signify. Their fleeces appear seedy and full of burrs and briars, and they show the effects of mismanagement and neglect.

A Pen of Southdowns.

It is best to start with a few well-bred ewes and the best ram that can be found at a reasonable price, and gradually build up a herd of fine ewes.

In this way the new breeder can make a closer study of the individuality of his sheep than he could if he was working with a larger number. A more intelligent selection could be made of the rams that were brought to mate with his ewes, and he could be all of the time increasing his knowledge of the business as the size of the flock increased, until he would be capable of wrestling with many of the more intricate problems that would come when the flock was nearing perfection. A great many fall with sheep because they undertake to work with too large a number.

Every sheep looks alike and they cannot make an intelligent study of the individuals that they are selecting and mating.

It takes considerable time for a man to train his eye and touch so that he can make intelligent selections even from his own flock.

When we observe the quality and study the conditions which surround the average farm flock we do not wonder that the majority of farmers make a failure of this sheep business.

It is really astonishing to note the waste of opportunities in the sheep business. Any intelligent farmer who is a student of the present economic conditions cannot fail to see that the future of the mutton growing and fattening business affords an attractive outlook for the farmer who is in a position to handle a farm flock of from one to two hundred well-bred ewes.

Relic of Barbarism.

A Texas paper views it this way: "Mud roads are a relic of barbarism and always indicate a people of slow and unprogressive habits. If a stranger should ride over all the roads of any county and find them all macadamized, he would be ready to bet on the superior intelligence and enlightenment of the people, whether he met a single one or not. The roads of this county can be greatly improved by the road drag and now is the time to do it."

IMPROVING THE POULTRY FLOCKS

Better Results Could Be Had if Farmers in Given Locality Would All Keep One Breed of Chickens.

The community idea might be worked a great deal more than it is in the pure-bred poultry business. Better results could be had if the farmers in a given locality would all keep one breed of poultry. If they would unite on some good, popular, easy selling breed, they would find buyers much more easily than where each man keeps a different kind of stock, says the American Cultivator.

With dairy cattle this plan has worked wonderfully well for certain groups of farmers in various parts of the country. In Wisconsin there is a dairy center, where almost everybody keeps Guernseys. In New York state there is a region where dozens of farmers keep Holsteins. In northern New Jersey there is another Guernsey center, and in various parts of the country there are Jersey and Ayrshire dairy centers. In all these localities there are hundreds of pure-bred animals, which can be seen in a few hours. Such a condition becomes known all over the country, and buyers travel hundreds of miles, knowing that if they do not find just what they want at the first farm they visit they are likely to find it further on in the same neighborhood.

In southern Rhode Island breeders in an accidental way kept a native class of fowls which later were known as Rhode Island Reds. When this breed began to attract notice the region was visited by scores of buyers, who picked up every decent colored bird at fancy prices, putting thousands of dollars into the hands of the farmers that they could never have had expected for the demand at more than market prices.

If fifty farmers in a neighborhood would unite on almost any poultry breed there would be no difficulty in finding a market. A great many breeders with a reputation and a host of regular customers would be glad to know of a locality where they could buy what extra stock they need to fill their orders. The farmers could easily sell the stock themselves through one of their number or through one of the New York or Boston concerns which make a specialty of pure-bred stock in large quantities. It is not a very difficult matter for the farmer to learn to sell his stock on his own account. Fancy birds will almost sell themselves.

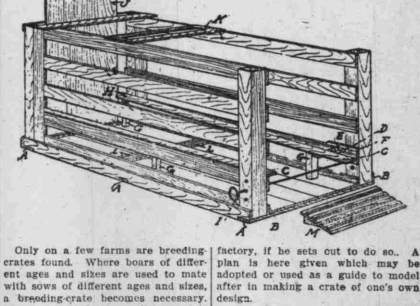

Progress and Improvement.

It is a well-known fact that in all dairy regions where dairying has been carried on for a number of years the farms are all in a high state of fertility and the farmers prosperous, with means for progress and improvements.

Best Ensilage.

Various kinds of roughage, such as clover, green oats, peas, etc., have been used for ensilage, but corn fodder makes the best. That is the almost universal verdict.

PLAN OF BREEDING CRATE

Only on a few farms are breeding-crates found. Where boars of different ages and sizes are used to mate with sows of different ages and sizes, a breeding-crate becomes necessary. In many cases farmers sell boars that have given excellent service and the best of pigs, simply because they were too large. This is a great mistake, and should be overcome by making breeding-crates. Nearly anyone can make a breeding-crate that is satisfactory, if he sets out to do so. A plan is here given which may be adopted or used as a guide to model after in making a crate of one's own design.

Money in Sows.

Fifty dollars invested in two good sows will earn five times as much as the money would in interest on a mortgage.

A STITCH IN TIME

Every form of cutaneous disease could be cured in its incipiency if a jar of Resinol Ointment were kept at hand. A little of this excellent Ointment applied in time will effectually ward off and cure a starting trouble which, if neglected, may prove a troublesome and often obstinate case of Eczema or other disfiguring skin disease. For burns, scalds, slight wounds, sores, eruption of poison ivy, sunburn, it is a quick and sure remedy, usually curing these troubles over night. To the unfortunate sufferer with Hemorrhoids (Itching or Inflamed Piles) resinol ointment is indeed a godsend. The intense pain and intolerable itching of this trouble is instantaneously relieved and a cure effected in a very short time.

The bath room or family medicine case is incomplete if not equipped with Resinol Soap and Ointment. They are most valuable accessories in every well regulated household, and can be obtained at any drug store.

Resinol Medicated Shaving Stick is also highly appreciated by men who regard a good complexion and a face free from pimples and blotches.

Globular Lightning.

Yesterday the inhabitants of Lewisham were provided with a specimen of that curious phenomenon known as "globular lightning." It is what is commonly called the "fire ball," and as it persists for several seconds it is obviously of a totally different character from any other form of lightning. It is much less brilliant than ordinary lightning, and its brightness appears to be that of iron at the "red hot" stage.

It is not, as some accounts might lead one to infer, a solid missile, but it is always spherical and appears to fall from a thunder cloud by its own gravity, sometimes rebounding after striking the ground.—London Globe.

Slightly Confused.

All of us become confused and all of us mix our language sometimes, but the preparation of an old negro preacher's sermon was the greatest confusion of metaphors I ever heard, says a traveler. When the lengthy discourse was nearing its close and he had reached his "Twenty-third and lastly, brethren," he wound up by the following elaborate figure:

"Everywhar, brethren, we see de almighty—all down de untrodden paths of time, we see de footprints of de almighty hand."—Hman Life.

A Liking for "Hamlet."

"Do you like Hamlet?" asked the hostess of her unlettered, if gushing, guest.

"Indeed I do," was the reply. "I am excessively fond of it, but I always prefer a savory to a sweet one."

There was a momentary confusion, and then the hostess realised that the admiration of the guest was of a culinary, not literary, character.

"I gave her ham with an omelette for breakfast next morning," said the hostess, when telling the story.—Scraps.

Active Possession.

Guinevere, aged four, was going out to walk with a young lady, of whom she was very fond. As they opened the street door they were met by a swirling cloud of dust, blown up from the thoroughfare.

"Keep your lips tightly closed, Gwen, or you'll get your lungs full of microbes," warned the young lady.

Guinevere pondered a moment and then, looking up, demanded:

"What are your crobes?"—National Monthly.

"NO FRILLS" Just Sensible Food Cured Him.

Sometimes a good, healthy commercial traveler suffers from poorly selected food and is lucky if he learns that Grape-Nuts food will put him right.

A Cincinnati traveler says: "About a year ago my stomach got in a bad way. I had a headache most of the time and suffered misery. For several months I ran down until I lost about 40 pounds in weight and finally had to give up a good position and go home. Any food that I might use seemed to nauseate me.

"My wife, hardly knowing what to do, one day brought home a package of Grape-Nuts food and coaxed me to try it. I told her it was no use but finally to humor her I tried a little, and they just struck my taste. It was the first food I had eaten in nearly a year that did not cause any suffering.

"Well, to make a long story short, I began to improve and stuck to Grape-Nuts. I went up from 135 pounds in December to 194 pounds the following October.

"My brain is clear, blood all right and appetite too much for any man's pocketbook. In fact, I am thoroughly made over, and owe it all to Grape-Nuts. I talk so much about what Grape-Nuts will do that some of the men on the road have nicknamed me 'Grape-Nuts,' but I stand today a healthy, rosy-cheeked man—a pretty good example of what the right kind of food will do.

INDEPENDENCE ON THE FARM

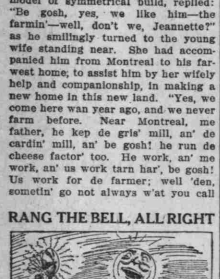

SPLENDID RESULTS FOLLOW FARMING IN THE CANADIAN WEST.

Americans In Canada Not Asked to Forget That They Were Born Americans.

Farm produce today is remunerative, and this helps to make farm life agreeable. Those who are studying the economics of the day tell us that the strength of the nation lies in the cultivation of the soil. Farming is no longer a hand-to-mouth existence. It means independence, often affluence, but certainly independence.

Calling at a farm house, near one of the numerous thriving towns of Alberta, in Western Canada, the writer was given a definition of "independence" that was accepted as quite original. The broad acres of the farmer's land had a crop—and a splendid one, too, by the way—ripening for the reapers' work. The evenness of the crop, covering field after field, attracted attention, as did also the neatness of the surroundings, the well-built substantial story-and-a-half log house, and the well-rounded sides of the cattle. His broken English—he was a French Canadian—was easily understandable and pleasant to listen to. He had come there from Montreal a year ago, had paid $20 an acre for the 320-acre farm, with the little improvement it had. He had never farmed before, yet his crop was excellent, giving evidence as to the quality of the soil, and the good judgment that had been used in its preparation. And brains count in farming as well as "braw." Asked how he liked it there, he straightened his broad shoulders, and with hand outstretched towards the waving fields of grain, this young French Canadian, model of symmetrical build, replied: "By gosh, yes; we like him—the farmin'—well, don't we, Jeannette?" as he smilingly turned to the young wife standing near. She had accompanied him from Montreal to his far-west home, to assist him by her wifely help and companionship, in making a new home in this new land. "Yes, we come here wan year ago, and we never farm before. Near Montreal, me father, he kep de gris' mill, an' de cardin' mill, an' be gosh! he run de cheese factor' too. He work, an' me work, an' us work tarn har', be gosh! Us work for de farmer; well 'den, sometin' go not always w'at you call de' right, an' de farmer he say de' mean t'ing, be gosh! and tell us go to —well, anyway he tarn mad. Now, and then he waved his hand again towards the fields, "I 'ave no bodder, no cardin' mill, no gris' mill, no cheese factor'. I am now de farmer man an' when me want to, me can say to de oder fellow! you go—! Well, we like him—the farmin'." And that was a good definition of independence.

RANG THE BELL, ALL RIGHT

Throughout a trip of several hundred miles in the agricultural district of Western Canada, the writer found the farmers in excellent spirits, an optimistic feeling being prevalent everywhere. It will be interesting to the thousands on the American side of the line to know that their relatives and friends are doing well there, that they have made their home in a country that stands up so splendidly under what has been trying conditions in most of the northwestern part of the farming districts of the continent. With the exception of some portions of Southern Alberta, and also a portion of Manitoba and Southern Saskatchewan the grain crops could be described as fair, good and excellent. The same drought that affected North and South Dakota, Montana, Minnesota, Wisconsin and other of the northern central states extended over into a portion of Canada just mentioned. But in these portions the crops for the past four or five years were splendid and the yields good.

The great province of Saskatchewan has suffered less from drought in proportion to her area under cultivation than either of the other provinces. On the other hand, instead of the drought being confined very largely to the south of the main line of the C. P. R. it is to be found in patches right through the center of northern Saskatchewan also. In spite of this, however, Saskatchewan has a splendid crop. A careful checking of the averages of yield, with the acreages in the different districts, gives an average yield of 15½ bushels to the acre.

In Southern Alberta one-fifth of the winter wheat will not be cut, or has been re-sown to feed. There are individual crops which will run as high as 45 bushels on acres of 500 and 1,000 acres, but there are others which will drop as low as 15. A safe average for winter wheat will be 19 bushels. The sample is exceptionally fine, excepting in a few cases where it has been wrinkled by extreme heat.

The northern section of Alberta has been naturally anxious to impress the world with the fact that it has not suffered from drought, and this is quite true. Wheat crops run from 20 to 30 bushels to an acre, but in a report such as this it is really only possible to deal with the province as a whole and while the estimate may seem very low to the people of Alberta, it is fair to the province throughout.

When the very light rainfall and other eccentricities of the past season are taken into account, it seems nothing short of a miracle that the Canadian West should have produced 102 million bushels of wheat, which is less than 18 million bushels short of the crop of 1909. It is for the West generally a paying crop and perhaps the best advertisement the country has ever had, as it shows that no matter how dry the year, with thorough tillage, good seed and proper methods of conserving the moisture, a crop can always be produced.

As some evidence of the feeling of the farmers, are submitted letters written by farmers but a few days ago, and they offer the best proof that can be given.

Maidstone, Sask., Aug. 4, '10.

I came to Maidstone from Menominee, Wis., four years ago, with my parents and two brothers. We all located homesteads at that time and now have our patents. The soil is a rich black loam as good as I have ever seen. We have had good crops each year and in 1909 they were exceedingly good. Wheat yielding from 22 to 40 bushels per acre and oats from 40 to 80. We are well pleased with the country and do not care to return to our native state. I certainly believe that Saskatchewan is just the place for a hustler to get a start and make himself a home. Wages here for farm labor range from $35 to $45 per month. Lee Dow.

Tofield, Alberta, July 10, 1910.

I am a native of Texas, the largest and one of the very best states of the Union. I have been here three years and have not one desire to return to the States to live. There is no place I know of that offers such splendid inducements for capital, brain and brawn. I would like to say to all who are not satisfied where you are, make a trip to Western Canada; if you do not like it you will feel well repaid for your trip. Take this from one who's on the ground. We enjoy splendid government laws, school, railway facilities, health, and last, but not least, an ideal climate, and this from a Texan. O. L. Pughs.

James Normur of Porter, Wisconsin, after visiting Dauphin, Manitoba, says: "I have been in Wisconsin 25 years, coming out from Norway. Never have I seen better land and the crops in East Dauphin are better than I have ever seen, especially the oats. There is more straw and it has heavier heads than ours in Wisconsin.

"This is just the kind of land we are looking for. We are all used to mixed farming and the land we have seen is finely adapted to that sort of work. Cattle, hogs, horses and grain will be my products, and for the live stock, prospects could not be better. I have never seen such cattle as are raised here on the wild prairie grasses and the vetch that stands three or four feet high in the groves and on the open prairie.

Sir Wilfred Laurier Talks to Americans.

Sir Wilfred Laurier, Premier of Canada, is now making a tour of Western Canada and in the course of his tour he has visited many of the districts in which Americans have settled. He expresses himself as highly pleased with them. At Craig, Saskatchewan, the American settlers joined with the others in an address of welcome. In replying Sir Wilfred said in part:

"I understand that many of you have come from the great Republic to the south of us—a land which is akin to us by blood and tradition. I hope that in coming from a free country you realize that you come also to another free country, and that although you came from a republic you have come to what is a crowned democracy. The King, our sovereign, has perhaps not so many powers as the President of the United States, but whether we are on the one side of the line or the other, we are all brothers by blood, by kinship, by ties of relationship. In coming here as you have come and becoming naturalized citizens of this country no one desires you to forget the land of your ancestors. It would be a poor man who would not always have in his heart a fond affection for the land which he came from. The two greatest countries today are certainly the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and the Republic of the United States. Let them be united together and the peace of the world will be forever assured.

"I hope that in coming here as you have, you have found liberty, justice and equality of rights. In this country, as in your own, you know nothing of separation of creed and race, for you are all Canadians here. And it I may express a wish it is that you would become as good Canadians as you have been good Americans and that you may yet remain good Americans. We do not want you to forget what you have been; but we want you to look more to the future than to the past. Let me, before we part, tender you the sincere expression of my warmest gratitude for your reception."

RIDING INTO ATHENS

Royal Palace and Constitution Square

The Parthenon

WE WERE to arrive in the morning at Piraeus, the ancient harbor of Athens, and I was on deck early. Soon after the familiar outlines of the Parthenon appeared in the distance, a white structure sharply delineated against the dark background of the Penteilcon. Peculiar as is the charm of the Greek landscape, it dwindles into insignificance as against the deep interest awakened by the old myths and historical reminiscences connected with this sacred cradle of European civilization.

Approaching our harbor we left several islands behind, among them Aegina, where, seven centuries B. C. a great step in civilization, the coinage of the first silver currency, was accomplished. Close to the harbor lies Salamis. What memories the view of the narrow stretch of water between this island and the coast recalls! Here was fought one of the decisive naval battles of the world, and here—irony of the times—a few weeks ago took place an insignificant little revolt of part of the little fleets of modern Greece.

Trouble at Landing.

My contemplations were disturbed by the rattle of anchor chains and a noisy crowd of hotel runners, guides and boatmen climbing at the same time over her sides. Being closely harassed, I made an end to the keen competition for possession of my baggage by turning it over to the agent of a hotel who had recognized me as a former guest. I got ashore in a large rowboat. The custom house formalities were soon finished, and I engaged a dilapidated-looking vehicle, the driver of which had proved himself to be the best tackler in the wrangle for my hand-bags. Although a short railroad connects Piraeus with Athens, it is by far preferable to use a carriage, especially in the winter season, when the landscape looks fresh and the road is not so dusty. The fehus are satisfied with 3 to 4 drachmas, about half what they originally ask, and one is well repaid for the longer time occupied by having in view, along the whole road, alternately, the hill of the Acropolis, Mount Lycabettus, and other interesting points of the landscape. The carriage road is also more interesting because it is almost identical with the ancient walled road which the Athenians built, centuries before Christ, to protect their connection with the sea. Of these two walls, however, not a vestige remains today.

Behind Slow Horses.

From my present experience I would recommend, though, a careful examination of the horses of your conveyance, else it may happen that the entry into Athens be accomplished under difficulties, such as I suffered. We had hardly left Piraeus when I noticed that the distance between another carriage, which left at the same time, and my own vehicle began to increase considerably. At first I did not pay any attention to this until we reached the narrow bed of a small rivulet, the historical Kephissu, which crosses the road to Athens within a short distance from Piraeus. There I remarked that the first carriage had left us way behind and was just disappearing behind a clump of poplar trees.

I poked the driver in the ribs with my umbrella and urged him to a faster pace. He shrugged his shoulders and cracked his whip, but the pace of his nags became steadily slower until we reached, at last, the small tavern on the right side of the road, halfway to Athens, which is so well known to most tourists who have visited Greece. The drivers always stop here, ostensibly to water the horses, but in reality to have their passengers pay them a glass of raki or masticha.

Here I noticed that one of the horses was lame and bled from an ugly wound in the knee. There being no other conveyance for me, I urged the driver, after treating him to a generous drink, to wash and tie up the sore, and after a rest of fifteen to twenty minutes we proceeded on our way. The leisurely trot, however, in which we started soon changed again to a slow walk until the lame horse fell and the carriage suddenly halted. The driver began to ply his whip energetically until I stopped him and alighted to help the nag out of harness. The second horse was too decrepit to pull us alone to the city.

I was on the horns of a dilemma when a mule cart passed and my driver began negotiations for the loan of the beast. An understanding was reached and the mule harnessed to our vehicle. Upon trying to proceed now it became evident, though, that the mule was not accustomed to pull in double harness, and it stubbornly refused to move. The energetic lashes of the driver were answered by just as energetic kicks, and at the point I would have started to walk the rest of the way had the road not been extremely muddy.

In Athens at Last.

I was cursing the ludicrous situation when a second cart drawn by a single horse overtook us. After a prolonged parley this steed was transferred to my carriage. The two animals pulled away, and I was congratulating myself on my chances of soon reaching Athens, when the new equine acquisition developed a tendency of throwing us into the ditch. No exertion of the driver, no pulling on the lines, was able to keep the team in the middle of the road, the Pelopdas, the Jehu, had to dismount and lead the animals by the bridle. In this way I rode into the city of Pericles, but on reaching the first houses of Hermes street, I, too, dismounted and walked to my hotel, reaching it some time before the carriage arrived.

SIGMUND KRAUSZ.

He Wood Be Dood.

Little Johnny wanted to go to church; his mother was afraid to take him lest he should make a noise; but his father said: "Johnny knows better than to make a noise in church, doesn't he?" "Yes, papa me will be dood." So they took him with them, and he kept very still till the last prayer, by which time he had grown so tired that he got up on the cushion of the seat, and stood with his back to the pulpit. When the lady in the seat behind him bowed her head for prayer, Johnny thought she was crying, so he leaned over and said to the lady in a tone which was meant for a whisper, but which was only too plainly heard: "Poor, dear lady! What ee matter? Do oo belly ache?"

Color Photography in Surgery.

Color photography is now applied to surgery. An autochrome plate is taken of the diseased condition before operation, so that the student may study the condition and have a better means of identifying a disease than the present black and white photograph affords.

A Shipping Error.

The young Duchess of Westminster, wife of the richest peer in England, recently gave birth to her third child, a daughter. Thus there is no heir to the immense Grosvenor fortune, Earl Grosvenor, the duchess' second child, having died at the age of four.

Apropos of all this, a rather cruel story is being told in Newport about Lady Ursula Grosvenor, the eight-year-old daughter of the young duchess.

A friend, the story goes, called at Eaton Hall, and as she sat in the drawing-room, little Lady Ursula entered.

"Oh, good afternoon," she said gravely. "Mamma can't see any one today. She's upstairs with the new baby. They sent her, you know, a girl when she'd ordered a boy, and she's so upset that she's quite ill."

How It Was Named.

Nottingham lace was so called because it originally was made by the semi-savage people who lived in the caves in the district now known as Nottingham, in England. By keeping the work between them and the dark mouth of the cave the women could work the pattern easily. Nottingham, or any other lace, even the finest and filmiest, can be washed safely and quickly with Easy Task soap, which is a natural, scientific cleanser and leaves the lace in the best condition. Easy Task costs but five cents a cake at your grocer's.

Even the Children.

Ex-Governor Pennypacker, condemning in his witty way the American divorce evil, told, at a Philadelphia luncheon, an appropriate story.

"Even our children," he said, "are becoming infected. A Kensington school teacher, examining a little girl in grammar, said:

"'What is the future of "I love?"'

"'A divorce,' the child answered promptly."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Source of Revelation.

Twenty-seven new, crisp, $1 bills, says Harper's Weekly, weigh as much as a $20 gold piece. Wouldn't have thought it, and have no means of proving the assertion, but if so it is probably owing in some way to the recent activity of the inspectors of weights and measures.

WESTERN CANADA'S 1910 CROPS

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

Wheat Yield in Many Districts Will Be From 25 to 35 Bushels Per Acre

Land sales and homestead entries increasing. No cessation in numbers going from United States. Wonderful opportunities remain for those who intend making Canada their home. New districts being opened up for settlement. Many farmers will net, this year, $10 to $15 per acre from their wheat crop. All the advantages of old settled countries are there. Good schools, churches, splendid markets, excellent railway facilities. See the grain exhibits at the different State and some of the County fairs.

Letters similar to the following are received every day, testifying to satisfactory conditions; other districts are as favorably spoken of:

THEY SENT FOR THEIR SON.

Middletown, Sask., Canada, Aug. 5th, 1910.

"My parents came here from Cedar Falls, Iowa, four years ago, and were so well pleased with this country they sent to Coeur D'Alene for me. I have taken up a homestead near them, and am perfectly satisfied to stop here." Leonard Douglas.

WANTS SETTLER'S RATE FOR HIS STOCK.

Stettler, Alberta, July 31st, 1910.

"Well I got up to Stettler (Big City), June 1st. Spring I stood with my stock and everything. Now, I have got two crops off my land, and I am back to my old home for my family. I will be back another car load here this fall. Why, I would like to know it, if there is any chance to get a cheap rate back again, and when we return to Canada I will call at your office for my certificate."

Yours truly, H. A. Wix.

WILL MAKE HIS HOME IN CANADA.

Brainerd, Minn., Aug. 1st, 1910.

"I am going to Canada next week from today and intend to make my home there. My husband has been there six weeks and is well pleased with the country; he wants me to come as soon as possible. He filed on a claim near Lacadie, Sask., and by his description of it it must be a pretty place.

Send for literature and ask the local Canadian Government Agents for Excursion Rates, best districts in which to locate, and when to go.

A PIG WITH A HISTORY

A Mercer County Pig Which Was a Mascot During the War of 1812.

Few people know that a Mercer county pig is the subject of an odd incident connected with the invasion of Canada by the Kentucky troops during the war of 1812. A company of volunteers assembled at Harrodsburg prior to the march to Ohio and on through the north into Canada.

According to the story the company saw two pigs fighting in the edge of Harrodsburg and stopped to watch the combat. When they proceeded on their way the victorious pig followed the soldiers through McAfee and on reaching Salvisa the speed of the animal was reduced to sixty miles an hour. At night when they went into camp the pig laid down near them. The men fed the new recruit, which followed them daily.

When they reached the river and crossed on the ferryboat at Cincinnati, the pig paused for a while, uncertain what to do, but finally plunged into the river and swam across and when the march was resumed took its place in the moving column.

The pig now became a great pet and was as sure of its rations as the men themselves, and destitute of food as the men sometimes were no one ever hinted at putting the knife to the throat of their faithful follower.

At Lake Erie the pig went on board the boat with the soldiers, but after reaching Bass Island, it declined to go ashore and remained behind in the care of a man who volunteered to look after its wants. When the troops returned to the American side, to the surprise of all, the pig was soon discovered on the right of the line, ready for the return march to Harrodsburg.—Herald.

"Can be depended upon," is an expression we all like to hear, and when it is used in connection with Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy it means that it never fails to cure diarrhoea dysentery or bowel complaints. It is pleasant to take and equally valuable for children and adults. Sold by all druggists.

Free Liver Remedy

It is well to stop a physical ailment at the first signs of its approach, and that is especially true of liver trouble, which can eventually give rise to so many serious complications. Many have liver trouble and imagine it is indigestion, and hence take the wrong remedy.

When the liver does not store up sufficient gastric juices it becomes sluggish, and in this way disturbs the stomach and bowels, with which it is supposed to work in harmony. Then comes the sallow complexion, the pimply face, the dull pain in the forehead, the thinning of the blood, etc. A very quick and sensible way to stop the trouble as well as to cure it is by the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which contains ingredients especially intended to promote the activity of the liver.

Among the many thousands who have written the doctor about the results achieved with his remedy, and who are glad to make the facts public so that others can help themselves, are Mr. Jas. Kennedy, St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. S. A. La Rue of Smith's Grove, Ky., and many others.

These, like thousands of others, started the use of Syrup Pepsin with a sample. If you will send your name and address you can also obtain a free trial bottle. This will prove to you that liver trouble is promptly cured with this remedy or money will be refunded. Having tried it you can then buy it in the regular way of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, and the latter is sufficient for an entire family.

This remedy is a vast improvement over cathartic tablets and salts, which only do good for the time being. Syrup Pepsin is permanent in its results, is pleasant to take and does not gripe. It is especially good for all those who cannot stand a violent purgative.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For other request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, K 409 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.
